Description Tancredi is a melodramma eroico in two acts by composer Gioacchino Rossini and librettist Gaetano Rossi, based on Voltaire's play Tanocrède (1759). The opera made its first appearance in Venice at the Teatro La Fenice on February 6, 1813, after Il signor Bruschino premiered in late January, giving the composer less than a month to have completed Tancredi. The overture, borrowed from La pietra del paragone, is a popular example of Rossini's characteristic style, and is a regular part of the concert and recording repertoire.
